

emaé

biography

emaé is an exciting, emerging talent in the British Music Scene. Influenced by Soul, R&B, Gospel and Pop, and with a commitment to lyrical storytelling, the Scottish-Congolese artist lived in cities across Scotland, England, Zambia and Zimbabwe, before settling in London to share music shaped by the life experiences gained from her travels.

Releasing music independently, emaé has gained recognition and support from such prominent music institutions as Serious Live (London Jazz Festival) and Help Musicians UK, and is most recently a recipient of the widely coveted PRS for Music #WomenMakeMusic grant.

Tipped as one to watch by the MOBOs, music from emaé's 2018 debut album Old Heart has been praised by BBC Introducing, MTV The Wrap Up, VEVO, among many other media outlets in the UK and around the world.

A qualified pharmacist, emaé is also a devoted ambassador for the social movement Sounds Like Women, a collective of international female artists using music to help empower women suffering domestic violence and all forms of discrimination.

Ever growing and evolving as a music artist and with a series of new releases ready, 2021 sees the beginning of the next creative chapter for emaé as she continues to build a loyal fanbase all around the world.

01 over

02 better

03 away from here

available on these streaming services

press

...definitely one to watch

- Gary Crowley, BBC
Introducing, BBC London
Radio, 94.9FM

emaé has made an international name for herself combining soul, R&B and pop to create easy-listening tracks with lyrical intensity.

- Ailsa Gillies, The Weekender

*...mind-blowingly
good, her voice is just unreal... and she showcases exactly
that with this brand
new track*

- Stuart Macaulay,
Pulse 98.4FM

photos

contact

FOR PRESS ENQUIRIES OR MORE INFORMATION PLEASE CONTACT

PR@EMAEMUSIC.COM